

Faba Service is now Faba

Faba Service co-op has changed its name to Faba co-op. The name change has been approved by the Finnish Trade Register on June 3rd 2010.

The new company name is closely tied to the merger in 2009 that united the Finnish artificial insemination and cattle breeding services. The name change strengthens Faba's new, solid culture of operation. The new name also supports the unity of the co-operative.

The official name of the company is Faba osk in Finnish, Faba anl in Swedish and Faba co-op in English. These names should be used in official contexts. In other communications the company name Faba can be used.
